GOVERNMENT AND THE E. I. D.

ALARM AMONGST all right thinking persons interested in the good and welfare of the E. I. D. was caused by the publication of an article in the "Edmonton Herald" on Sunday of last week under the name of Fred Kennedy, Herald reporter. It was suggested in the report that the Government was actually contemplating taking over the project in its entirety, firing the existing trustees, and terminating the contract or arrangements made whereby Mr. Charlesworth would succeed Mr. Gray in April of this year.

It is unlikely that anything of this nature can be true. If it should prove actually to be the case then the rate of the E. I. D. as a successful agriculture venture is sealed. We hope, we might add "and pray" that there is no truth in the report.

Steps have been taken by interested bodies including the Boards of Trade of both Bassano and Edmonton protesting as a measure of precaution, against any such proposal. By the time this goes to press, it will probably all have been decided, and we think that the existing trustees will carry on, that Mr. Charlesworth will be the Manager, and that the Government will keep it hands off the project.

While on the subject however, it might not be amiss to state publicly that the "small group of private members" who kicked up all the shindy in the House and whose action inspired the report, is headed by no less a person than the present member for this constituency Mr. W. E. Cain aided and abetted by Mr. Hartley. We wonder how the farmers of the E. I. D. would like to see the sitting member installed as Manager of the E. I. D.? Pretty thought!

SPRING

SPRING IS IN THE AIR. The cold winter-blasts that chill have retreated before the warm, comforting winds of the "Chinook." With them have gone the prairie's coat of snow leaving in its place fields inundated with life giving moisture. Dormant nature will come to life. Grass, rich and green, will transform the frozen wastes; crocuses will bloom, trees bud and the prairie will live again.

Most comforting of all from the farmer's standpoint is the abundance of moisture prevalent in the fields. To him that means an excellent seed bed and a healthy start of the crops of wheat and coarse grains that will be planted in the weeks to come. It will give him hope and courage to face the discouragements which may be his, when the grasshoppers, the dry winds, and drought, and all the other ills which beset the life of the prairie farmer assail him and his work with all the fury they are capable of in this tickle climate.

WHEAT AND WAR

REMEMBERING the experiences of the Allies in the Great War of 1914-1918 when one of their major difficulties was the mere matter of food supplies, particularly wheat, and observing the malaise with which this world appears to be heading off another flood of probably greater and more awful proportions, the thought occurs—ought we not now to be preparing for what appears to be inevitable and marshal all the great resources of this great country to produce as much wheat as possibly can be produced against the evil day?

In view of events in Europe as they transpire from day to day, and not with any necessary but with the very highest patriotic motives, it ought to be the duty of the one charged with responsibility to see that the acreage sown to wheat is increased tremendously, even at the risk of it being left on our hands.

The farmer, just as of course, is protected against that eventuality just as he probably would be prevented from "making a killing" by having a maximum price tagged on to his product in the event of war. It would seem to us to be the clear duty of the Government now to take the necessary steps to increase the wheat acreage.

HITLER'S METHODS

NOBODY WHO HAS READ Herr Hitler's now famous book, probably the World's Best Seller, "Mein Kampf" ought to be astonished at his methods of territorial aggression. The story of the re-occupation of the Rhine, the annexation of Austria, of Sudetenland, of Czechoslovakia, and now of Memel is all according to his creed as written in his book, an extract from which reads as follows:

"AN INTELLIGENT victor will, whenever possible, present his demands to the vanquished in installments. He can then be sure that a nation which has become characterless—and such is every one which voluntarily submits—will no longer find any sufficient reason in each of these detailed oppressions to take to arms once more. The more extortions thus cheerfully accepted, however, the more unutilized does it seem to people finally to set about defending themselves against some new, apparently isolated, although really constantly recurring, oppression, especially if taking everything together, so much more and greater misfortune has been borne silently and tolerantly without doing so."

Mr. Chamberlain ought to have been warned by this utterance, even if he did not choose to pay heed to Anthony Eden. And after Munich Herr Hitler has probably had occasion to revise his estimate of the British people (or should we say the British Government?) of whom, in his book, he should have the greatest admiration. He may yet have occasion to fear both.

NOTE AND COMMENT

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN'S speech from Birmingham when he exposed Herr Hitler's duplicity and untrustworthiness in matters international reminded us of the store-keeper who cashed "a bum cheque" six months ago and only found it out yesterday.

THE MARKETING ACT and the Insurance Act both presently before the Edmonton, ought to satisfy some of the still hungry Social Credit office seekers. These two statutes probably are worth two or three hundred appointments, all in the hands of the Ministers in charge.

We wish the Editor of MacLean's is biting his finger nails with rage over his Editorial in the latest issue just to hand. In his view everything in Europe points to peace etc. etc. We do hope he is right. But then read Liberty 1st April "It Can't Happen in Canada."

Plans for the Royal Tour of Canada by Their Majesties the King and Queen are proceeding apace. We do hope they do come for then we will know that there is still some measure of peace on earth—at least so far as the British Empire is concerned.

RESULTS FROM $25,000,000?

HON. SOLON LOW, provincial treasurer has introduced his budget calling for provincial expenditures of $25,000,000 and forecasting a deficit of $1,000,000. This is a far jump for a government that was going to do away with taxes and bring purchasing power to the people.

We have had theories aplenty, we have had promises, certificates, credit houses, credit vouchers, government co-operatives, many of which have already gone bankrupt. But we have had no outstanding government policies to help the position of our farmers, who find the market price of wheat below the cost of production and the dominion putting up $48,000,000 to cover the difference—oats and barley not worth the cost of the threshing bill; egg prices an insult to poultry, and market roads nonexistent in this part of the country at least five months in the year. This is a farming country, and we would like to learn what benefits have accrued to our farmers for the increase of from 50 to 150 per cent in taxes that have taken place since the change in our government back in 1933. Will someone please write in and tell us whether it is better schools, better roads, hospitals, markets or just more Sunday night radio programs and more civil servants drawing salaries—Grande Prairie Herald.

BLETHERING PROFESSORS

UNIVERSITY professors who have some sense and sensibility have developed a reticence that should serve as an example to a few who have not. These never lose a chance to air their views upon the British and British. One charges Britain with having wrecked the League of Nations and collective security whereas, reliance at the League, if continued, might easily have wrecked Britain. Several of them are for Canadian neutrality in the event of war, or, if it is better schools, better roads, hospitals, markets or just more Sunday night radio programs and more civil servants drawing salaries—Grande Prairie Herald.

REPRESENTATION

WE PEOPLE of Alberta must be rather lawless and in need of government. We have always thought the wild west of a few years ago was a thing of the past but apparently not so. Writing in an Edmonton newspaper, an English newspaper reporter makes this clear. He states that in Alberta every member of the legislature represents an average of 12,000 voters; in England every members of parliaments represents 75,000 voters. The question is which country is best governed. We could at least double the per member representation and continue to have a surplus of provincial members to send to Ottawa or elsewhere to seek aid for our present provincial political rot.

—Peace River Record

CZECHS AND SLOVAKS BLEMESLESS

Hitler has demonstrated to the world that he holds sacred no treaty or agreement that he can break to his own advantage by the method of force. His seizure of Czechoslovakia brings the world just that much nearer to war. The Czechs and Slovaks were not entirely blameless. They were playing the world powers for advantages they could not hope to gain other than by their strategic military position. On the other hand, the world was friendly to Czechoslovakian trade, and much German goods found foreign markets under Czech trade marks. Germany will find this source of foreign revenue cut off.

—Clareholm Local Press

CANADA NEEDS GOOD SETTLERS

THE LACOMBE GLOBE takes a rather short-sighted view of the emigration of 3,000 Sudent Germans from their native land to Canada. We need more population in this country—lots more. What are 3,000 people to a country like this? It would be better still if the number were 30,000. The Germans are a fine class of people. We mean the real Germans—not the counterfeits that follow Hitler. These people are a lot coming as paupers. They are coming with the latest Canada which distinctly states that anyone with $1,500 capital may enter our country provided they can pass the health authorities.

—Alex Free Press

GREAT BRITAIN PREPARES

TODAY THE WORLD is learning that the British people are sound at heart, that Britain is still Britain, a nation that has faith in her own destiny, that will not cringe before despotism nor impair the liberties of her own people nor trample on less powerful nations. Never in all her history did Britain arm herself at the rate that she is arming today. She is arming not because of any designs that she has against any other nation or people, but arming to defend her independence and territories and to recover the moral leadership of civilization that once was her chief pride. Her people, who had fondly hoped that international law would provide collective security for all, far from complaining about the new sacrifices being required of them in taxation and personal service, are urging the government on to greater and more intelligent effort in the work of preparedness.—Toronto Star.

To Lighten Your Burdens.....

Little more than a generation ago wise purchasing—even of the family necessities required a great deal of time and effort. Manufacture was limited. Exact articles for particular needs were hard to find. And often one product after another had to be tried before the right one was found.

Today—manufacture that seems limitless has filled our stores with excellent articles of every nature. There are many brands of every need. The discriminating buyer can choose from a great array of goods that are continually being spread before his eyes.

But to buy wisely one must read the advertisements. In the pages of this newspaper, progressive merchants and manufacturers are telling you—truthfully and concisely—about their products. They are anticipating your need. They know that they must meet your exacting requirements.

Read the advertisements regularly and carefully. They are the measure of business progress. They are the means to discriminate buying. They will help you to get the greatest value for every dollar you spend.

FEDERAL WHEAT POLICY

The policy of Federal Grain Limited is that of supporting the demands of the "Western Committee on Markets and Agricultural Re-adjustment" for:

- The continuation of a Wheat Board for 1939-40.
- The setting of a guaranteed price for wheat of at least 80 cents for One Northern, basis Fort William.
- The granting of financial assistance to coarse grain farmers and to farmers who may be affected by drought or other forms of crop failure.

as the largest yield of seed of any legume suited to temperate climate. Due to their drought resistance they are especially well suited to light sandy soils. Bright frosts do not have any great detrimental effect upon the bean.

By reason of the fact that beans grow erect as compared with field peas, they are easy to keep free of weeds. Though drought resistant, they will also withstand excessive moisture. These factors will serve to illustrate why the Bassano Board of Trade suggest the introduction of the bean, and draw attention of the growth to farmers of the District. The yellow varieties of the bean is best suited if grown for seed. They have the highest oil content. Of the yellow varieties, Mandarin is the one most highly recommended for this district.

As a forage crop, the brown, green

MRS. H. EVANS, PIONEER, PASSES

Mr. Harvey Evans, resident of the Bassano district for the past twenty-seven years, passed away at his home south of town early Wednesday morning following a short illness.

Born at Woodstock, Ont., in the year 1864, Mrs. Evans was 74 years of age at the time of her death. In 1912 she accompanied her husband, Edward Evans, to the Bassano District, where he has resided continually since. Her husband predeceased her two years ago.

Surviving her are two children, Mr. G. J. Mealey, of Nanton, and Mr. Aubrey Evans of Bassano.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Knox Presbyterian Church on Friday afternoon, March 24th, at 2 p.m. Pastor Mr. Richard Main will officiate at the service. Funeral arrangements are in charge of Dr. H. Y. Barlow of Bassano.

Weekly Recipe

COD AND CHEESE TEAM

TO PLEASE
One good turn deserves another, and here Canada Cod and Canadian Cheese team up to make a grand dinner. It's simple too, easy to make on busy days, and easy on the budget. But, of course, the real test is whether the family likes it, and that is a foregone conclusion, with two well known favorites, all topped off with buttered crumbs to please the eye and intrigue the appetite.

COD AND CHEESE AU GRATIN

- 3 cups Canada Cod
- 1/2 cup grated Canadian cheese
- 1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs
- 2 cups hot milk
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 tablespoons flour

Seasoning.
Prepare a white sauce with butter, flour, milk and cheese, and season. Place half the cod or any other kind of white-fleshed fish may be used instead - in a buttered oven dish, cover with half of the cheese sauce, then a second layer of fish, and the rest of the sauce. Cover with the bread crumbs, brown in oven.

The Canadian favorite, chicken haddock can also be used in this recipe. Or if you use the dried or shredded cod, here's the way to freshen it. The shredded cod can be freshened in a few minutes, or use the following method of freshening dried cod:

HOW TO FRESHEN DRIED

SALT FISH

1st Method: Wash the fish to take off the salt left of the surface, then soak in cold water twelve to eighteen hours, with the skin on top.

2nd Method: Shred the fish, wash several times to take off salt left on surface, then put it into cold water and heat to the boiling point; pour off the water, and repeat the operation a second time and even a third, if necessary. Do not cut dried fish with a steel knife; if a knife is used the fish will take on a "steely" taste or black strains, which mature more rapidly, are the best. As a forage crop, as well as the fulfilling effect upon the soil, they are equal to alfalfa. Therefore to the irrigated farmer they have a place in his crop rotation scheme.

Soil
Soy Beans yield best on mellow fertile sandy clay loams. They however will produce a fair yield on land which is too poor to grow cold cereals. The yield of beans will run from 15 to 40 bushels.

The preparation of the soil is most important. The ground should be well prepared summer-fall or spring ploughing thoroughly worked in the spring with a disc or harrow to provide a fine smooth seed bed. This too will help in overcoming the weed menace later in the season.

For the dry land farmer trying to grow out it is suggested to use a piece of well worked summer-fall of sandy loam, which has accumulated some moisture from previous years, so as to give the beans a good start. It is well known that soy beans are really drought resistant.

Seeding, cultivation and Harvesting

Seeding should be done as early in the spring as possible - as soon as frost disappears. Soy beans are very frost resistant than cool peas or corn. Unless a legume has been grown on the land the seed the previous year, beans should be inoculated with a special bacteria culture provided by the government. Seeding may be done in rows, or drilled with a special drill. It is suggested that beans be drilled in rows, three feet apart. Having them in rows makes them easy to cultivate and keeps down weeds. The suggested rate of seeding is 60 pounds per acre. The farmer seed on dry land may find that a lighter seeding by one third may be best. Especially in this true where a small amount of moisture is present. As this planter may have the maximum available moisture to start, and thus be better able to withstand mid-summer drought.

Harvesting

If they are to be grown for hay the soy beans should be cut about a month before ripening, when the pods are about half filled out. The hay is then baled and stored in a barn or used as ensilage. When grown for seed, the beans are left to ripen in the field. Cutting is done when the beans are along ripe, after leaves turn brown and fall off.

They may be then cut with an ordinary binder or reaper, or even a combine.

It is suggested as a start that a farmer even try a small amount in the garden and endeavor to mature some seed, then select the hardest and best for seeding on a larger acreage next year.

Threshing and Storage

The ordinary grain thrasher will thresh them with adjustments to prevent cracking of the bean. After the proper storage of the bean after harvesting is important. To prevent moulding or heating the beans should never be baled in large quantities if their moisture content exceeds 15 per cent. It can be noted that soy beans are seldom if ever attacked by weevils or other grain insects.

Due to the geographical situation of this district, ideal circumstances prevail for the storage of the best Soy Beans have the same range as corn, and excellent corn of most variety can be matured in this area, so that Soy Beans have an equal chance.

The hay or straw is good for all livestock. The beans after the oil is extracted makes Soy Flour, macaroni flour, diabetic foods, a base for Worcester sauce, and animal compound feeds.

The oil is used industrially in the manufacture of soaps, paints, varnishes, linoleum, plastic woods, rubber substitutes and explosives.

Lack of space in this issue prevents a further discussion on the plant, but in future editions, more uses of the plant, together with the marketing possibilities for the growing of soy beans in this district will be given.

WITHOUT A SHIRT

Who says listeners aren't a kind-hearted lot? An infatigable listener recently came to the aid of Gail Gagn, CFA's sports commentator, by presenting him with what seemed a dire necessity at the time.

The whole incident wasn't over has happened if Gail hadn't done a little crystal-gazing on the "Sport-ecyle" in connection with the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap. On the day of that great race, Gail in the role of Swami or somebody, looked into the future, and proclaimed that the winner of the racing class would be a horse called "Goomum". Mind you, he didn't say merely that he thought the name would run over the finish line first; he gave a number of good reasons why such an event would occur. The prediction was

A little gentle ribbing was in it, and the following Monday Jack Bennett introduced the racing news as "Gail Gagn, ace sports commentator for CFA, but the world's worst picker, the man without a home or a shirt, or drilled into his back." Gail retorted that the lack of television which would have shown him shivering through his sports broadcast sans shirt.

And here is where the generosity of one listener must be acknowledged. An infatigable listener, who remains anonymous, wrote that he depended on the "Sportecyle" daily for his sports news, and the very last he could do would be to prevent any threat of pneumonia and a consequent loss of the "Sportecyle."

And he forwarded to Gail, a white broadcloth shirt, neatly laundered and ready to do service for the poor shivering commentator!

Who says there is no Santa Claus? BING CROSBY turned fire-fighter, in the Kraft Music Hall rehearsal recently when his pipe started a waste basket fire in his dressing room. The waste burned unnoted until it suddenly flared into a blaze five feet high. Discarded films someone had thrown in the basket filled the room with stifling fumes as Bing pulled a fire extinguisher off the wall and went to work. Had the fire not before the studio guards arrived.

FIBER LOVES FILM CAPITOL

HE'S STILL SMALL TOWN GUY

Mindful of the fact that you can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy, Fiber McEwe, after several weeks in Hollywood, says that he still prefers the smaller elements represented in Wistful Vista, the mythical town of his broadcasts, soon to be heard over CFA's from the NBC-TV Network.

"Hollywood certainly is a town that's built on show business," Fiber observed. "It's even hit the picture lots out here. I noticed a big sign on one of the lots which read 'Read Your Contract Before Leaving'. But if I see any trace of Hollywood, it's touching our show. I'm going to get right into the old hat shirt. I don't think the folks would like us if we went Hollywood'. We're small town folks at heart, and glamour would be as out of place on us as false eyelashes on Mickey Mouse.

A good way to make a postage stamp stick, we are told, is to breathe on it instead of licking it. An even better way is to put the wrong address on the envelope.

MINIMUM PRICE MAY BE 70c

It is reported in Ottawa that when the government announces its policy the minimum Wheat Board price will be fixed at 70c a bushel for One Western at the terminal instead of 60c as ordinarily contemplated.

The average bonus plan, it is believed, will be changed to provide a maximum payment of $1.00 an acre instead of $2.00 as ordinarily featured. Of course, this bonus plan is dependent upon the open market price of wheat and also the per acre yield.

Apparently Hon. Mr. Ordner is determined to introduce a policy which will provide a more equitable distribution of government benefits. He claims the current year's minimum price benefited those who had good crops and did little for the farmers whose crop returns were small.

Certainly it is that there has been a drastic change in the government plan the main one, of course, being that the Wheat Board will be continued.
